SECOND CHURCH PASTOR RESIGNS

Rev. Cr. Lester L. West Decides to Accept Call to Everett, Wash., where He was Also Called Three Years Ago -Wants to Go Last of this Month.

Henry E. Haskell has closed his cot-There was a surprised and sorrowful congregation at the Second Congregational church Sunday morning when Rev. Dr. Lester L. West, pastor of the church, read his resignation, which he desires to have take tor of the church, read his resigna-tion, which he desires to have take effect the last of this month, that he may leave for the Pacific coast the last Monday in the month. But few knew of the intended announcement, the officers of the church having be-come acquainted with the decisoin, and it came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky and cast a gloom through-out the church.

A large number was present at the morning service and after the excellent sermon preached by Dr. West, he read his letter of resignation, which was as follows:

The longer and more deeply one

The longer and more deeply one lives the more keenly he realizes how inadequately he had lived, and the nearer he draws to the end the more clearly he hears the far clear call of the inflinite possibilities of life. With growing clearness in his cars the cry deepens, "Miss no opportunity." It is not often in this strange life that the real opportunities which once offer themselves to any man return a second time to him. But such for once seems to have been my case. Some three years ago the call from the church that Everett, Wash., came to me. At the earnest request of many members of this congregation, that call was declined. I have never been absolutely sure in my own mind that was declined. I have never been absolutely sure in my own mind that was declined. I have never been absolutely sure in my own mind that was declined. I have never been absolutely sure in my own mind that was declined. D. Havelland.

Coming with shocking suddenness, the congregation could hardly realize they were about to lose their revered many wet eyes throughout the church when it came to speaking of his leaving to home of the local pastors said: "It is a calamity to Norwich."

This second call to the Congregation of the congregation of the congregation of the motion of J. D. Havelland.

To mind a meeting of the ecclesiastical so-cilety on Friday evening at 7, the latter being upon the motion of J. D. Havelland ment on Broadway has been leased call was declined. I have never been absolutely sure in my own mind that that was not a mistake. But now again a call has come from that same church. Because it is the opening of a door to me for the second time, of a real opportunity, of larger service and a growing work; because in it I hear not sperely the call of a church, but a deep call of life and the wider interests of the kingdom of God, the conviction is upon me that it is my duty to accept that call.

I therefore now present to you my resignation as pastor of this church. In taking this step, I need not say to yo uthat there are regrets in my heart
